Bev Gabbard—a study in concentration.

Yes, the colors on our cover are red, white, and blue.

We believe this is a year for every one to reassert their belief in our nation and the people in it. Discontent, pessimism, and disillusionment cannot be allowed to take over.

We are young. We look hopefully to the future. We must doggedly cling to the good and live down the bad. As one famous American said, "Some men see things as they are and ask why. We dream things that never were and ask why not."

We proudly claim America as the land we love, and call upon all to stand up and be counted, as we vote "AYES FOR AMERICA AND IT'S YOUTH."

Evening in Venice . . . . the "Memorable Junior-

Couples exchange dances at Junior-Senior Prom.

Blue and silver accented the 1968 Junior-Senior Prom while carrying out its theme, "Evening in Venice." A beautifully-adorned fountain highlighted the dance floor. A flower-trimmed bridge greeted couples into an evening of entertainment. After the dance, the pairs went to the Fair-play Bowling Lanes and the Southern Steak House for a post-prom party and breakfast.

Mixed Emotions Experienced by Seniors As

Cameras record meaningful moments.

The Finality of it all! Commencement—a time of happiness and sadness. Realizing that togetherness at class parties, ballgames, and activities is over, but looking expectantly to the future, confident in its promises.

And so it is: Today, the first day of the rest of our lives!

Intense listeners await diplomas.

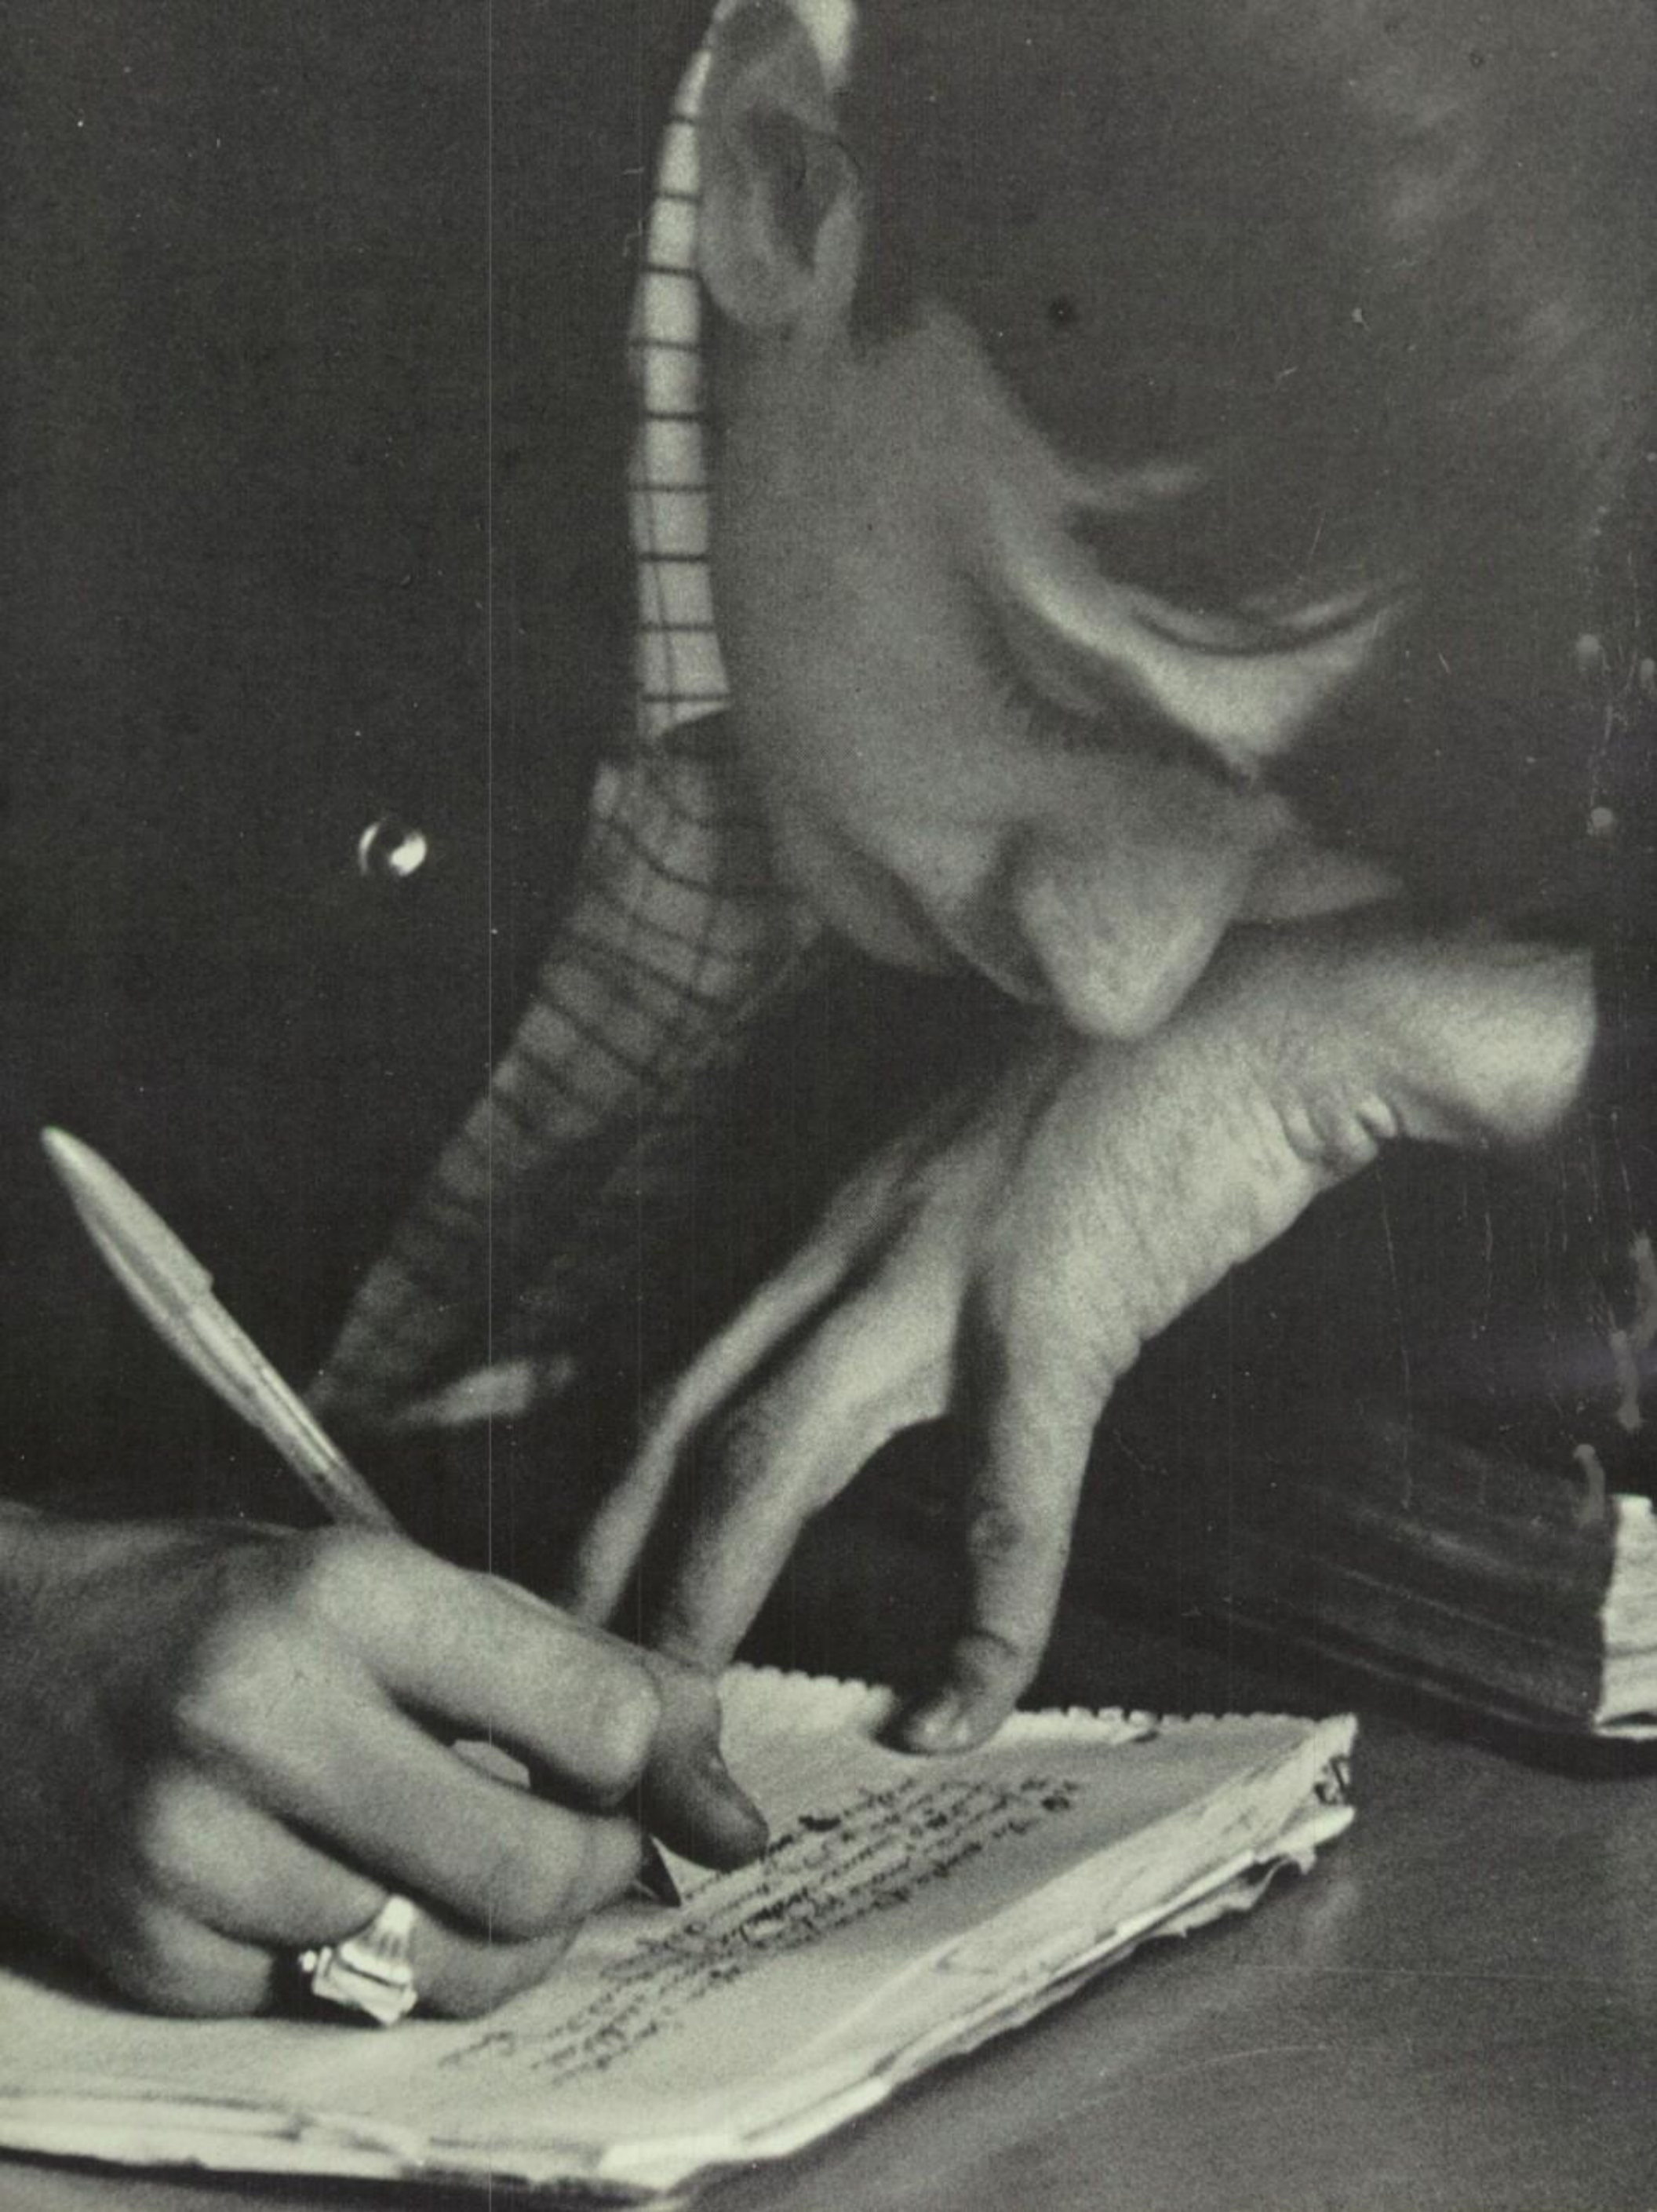
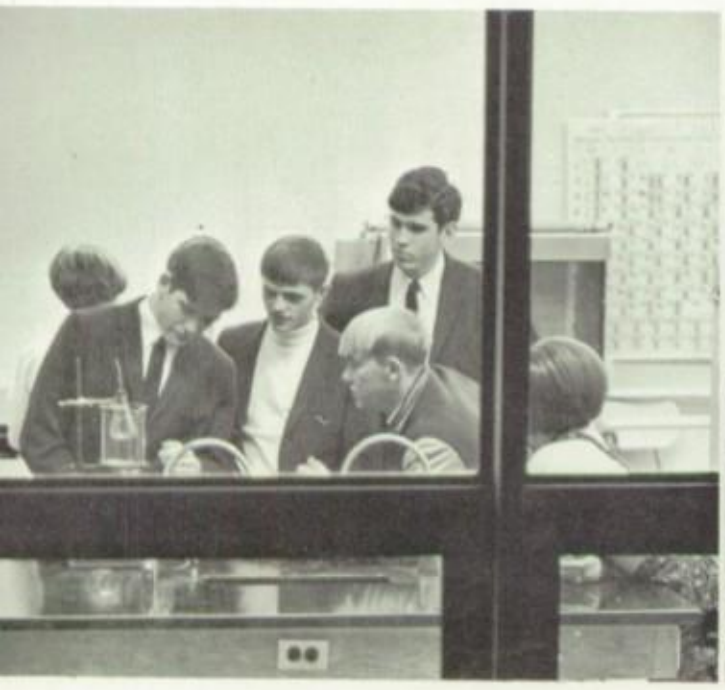
"I Was A Teen-Age Dracula," an eerie three-act melodrama was presented on October 11 by the Junior Class. In-between-acts included, "Spanish Flea" and "Gentle on My Mind." The students worked together to create a professional atmosphere under the direction of Charles McMahan.

The zombies are coming, "Ahoo, Ahoo."

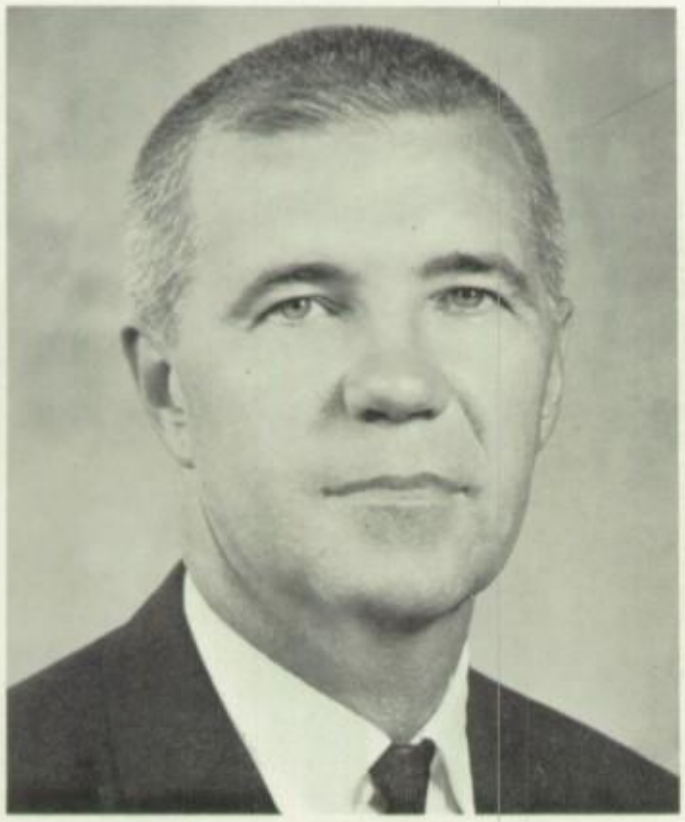


Academic



Freedom of Speech, Freedom of Religion, and the Right to Assemble. These are basic American rights that only we, the youth, can preserve. Just as a gavel sets the tempo at a meeting, so must the government regulate the beat of our nation's youth.

ADMINISTRATION



Charles Street, Principal

To the 1969 Graduating Class

Let me extend to each of you the warm congratulations of a former student who, in spirit, shares your sense of achievement.

You have laid a foundation for useful and satisfying lives. Do not squander your lives in petty pursuits. Commit yourselves now to a course that will strengthen you for the trials and opportunities of life.

Presidential Election Adds Interest to Government

Gary Sullivan reads about his favorite candidate.

In History we show the development of America from the pre-civil war period to the present day, showing the nation divided, to one that has become a world power.

Films and field trips have added to the understanding of our government.

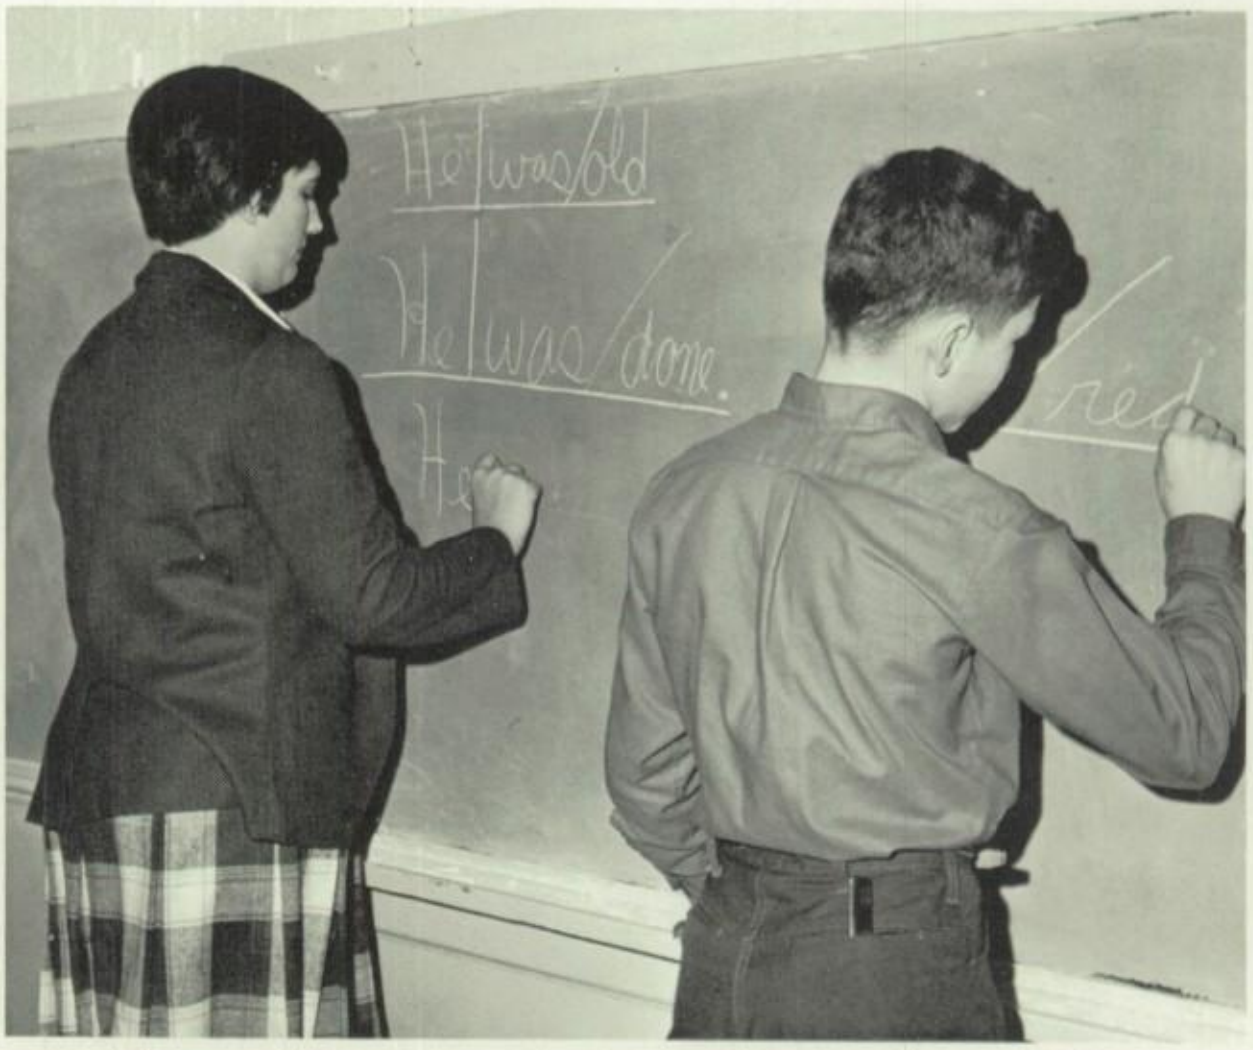
Striving for an "A" in completion of term papers are Beth Peavey and Karen Wilson.

Joe Coulomb, Democrat, tell his candidate's background.

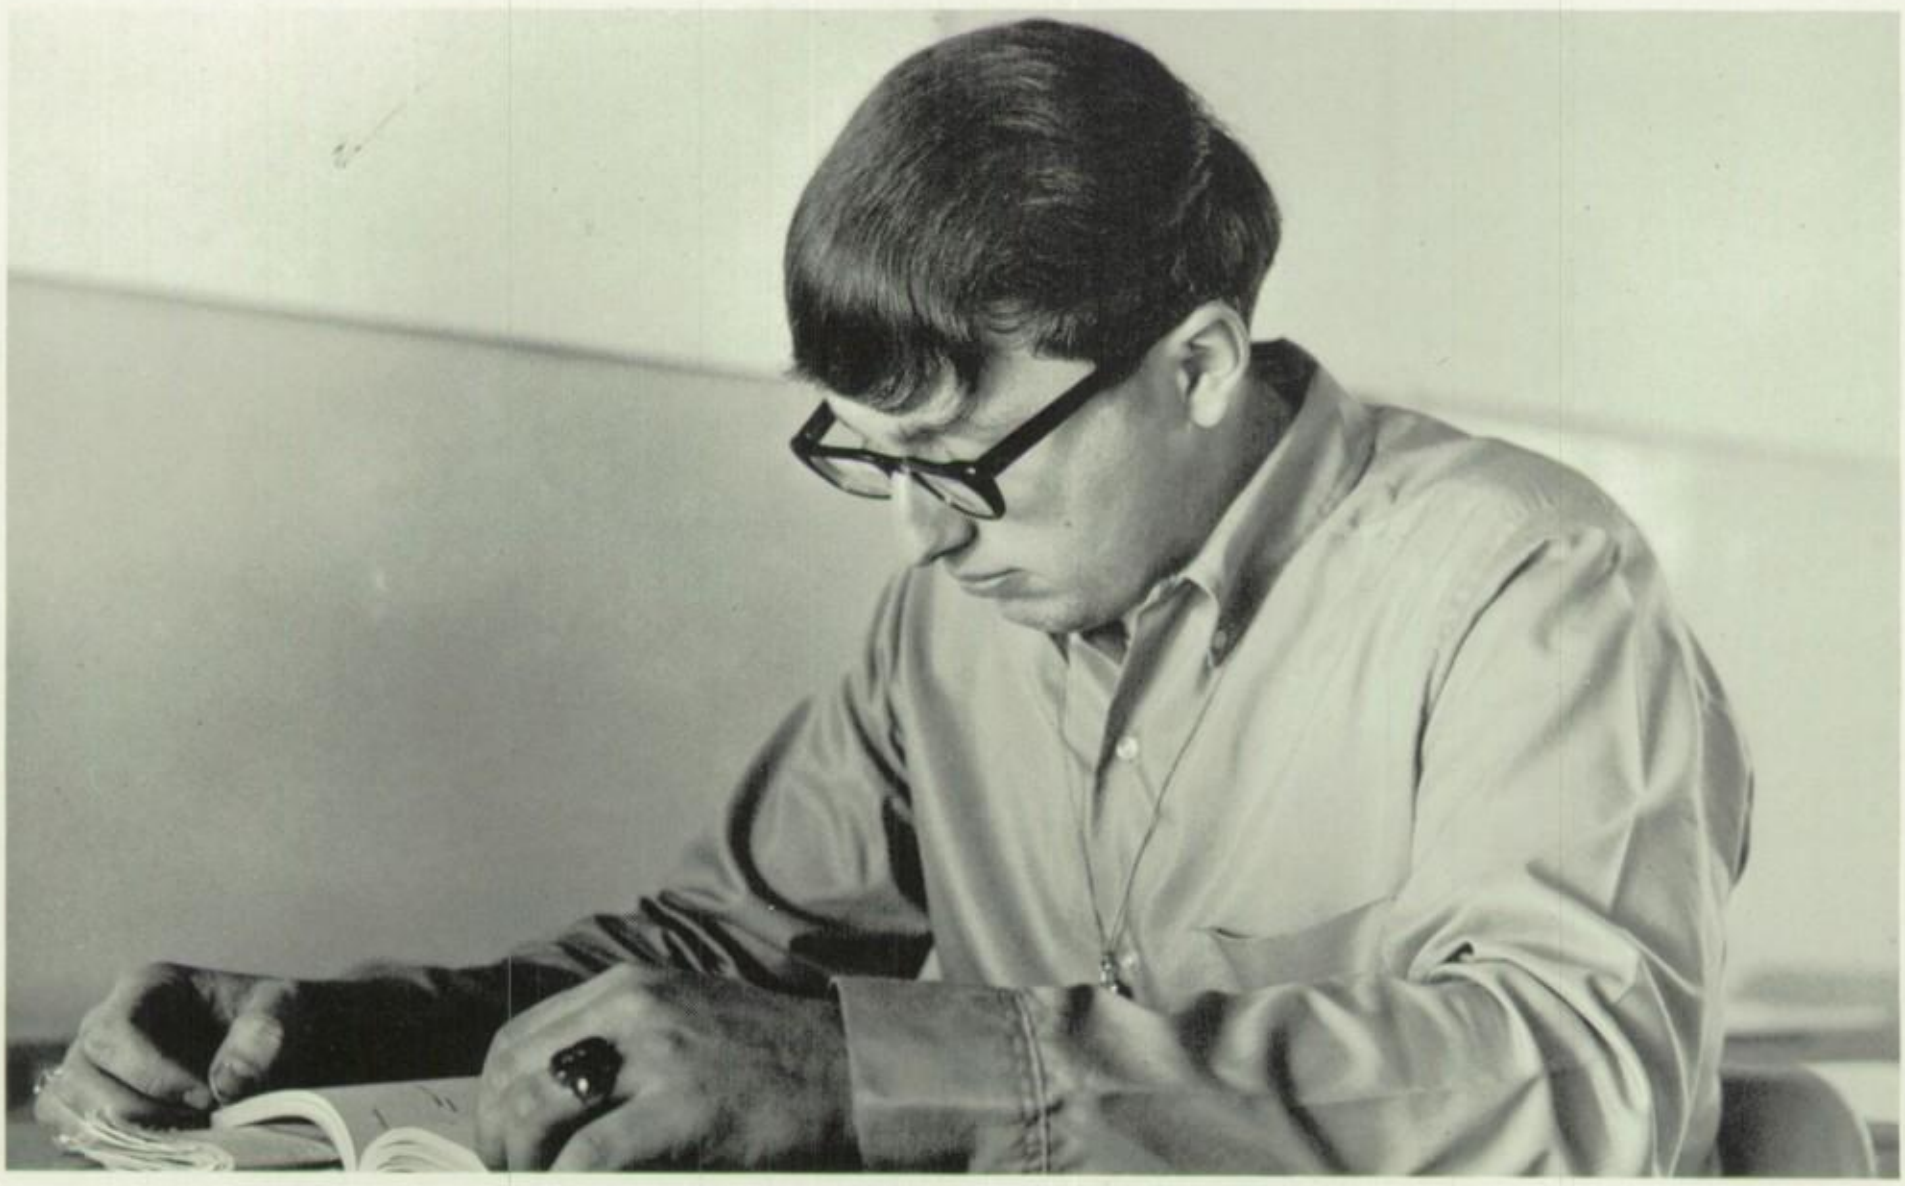
New Grammar Challenges Both English and

The department of English took on an atmosphere of newness. Students expanded their knowledge of traditional grammar by including the study of structural and transformational linguistics. They learned that language follows the theories of both the anomalists and the analogist with emphasis upon the anomalists.

Instead of the usual literature text, students were issued four paperback anthologies (fiction, nonfiction, poetry, and drama). Classes were enriched by audiovisual aids and a trip to see a stage play.

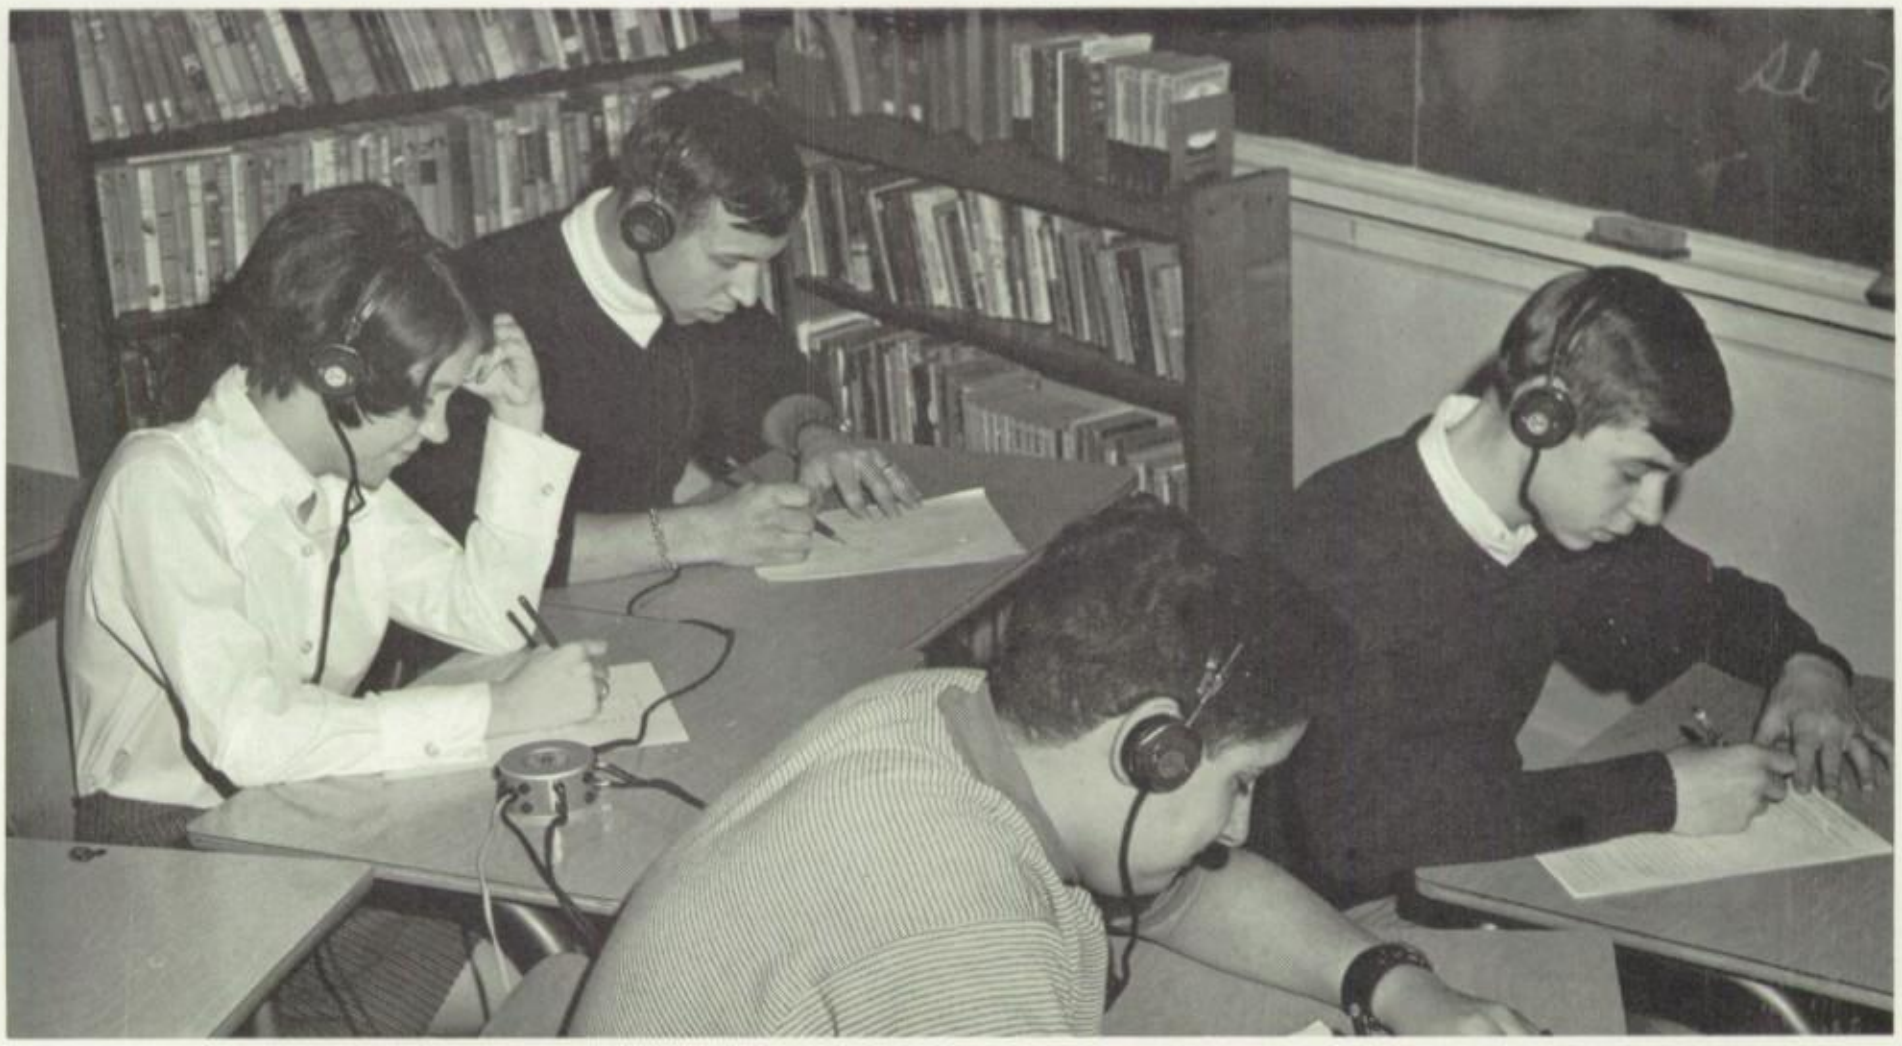


Diagramming sentences are Brenda Calvert and Russel Coker.



Larry Sullivan reads passages from Macbeth.

Spanish Classes . . .



Earphones vary class routine for Spanish II students.

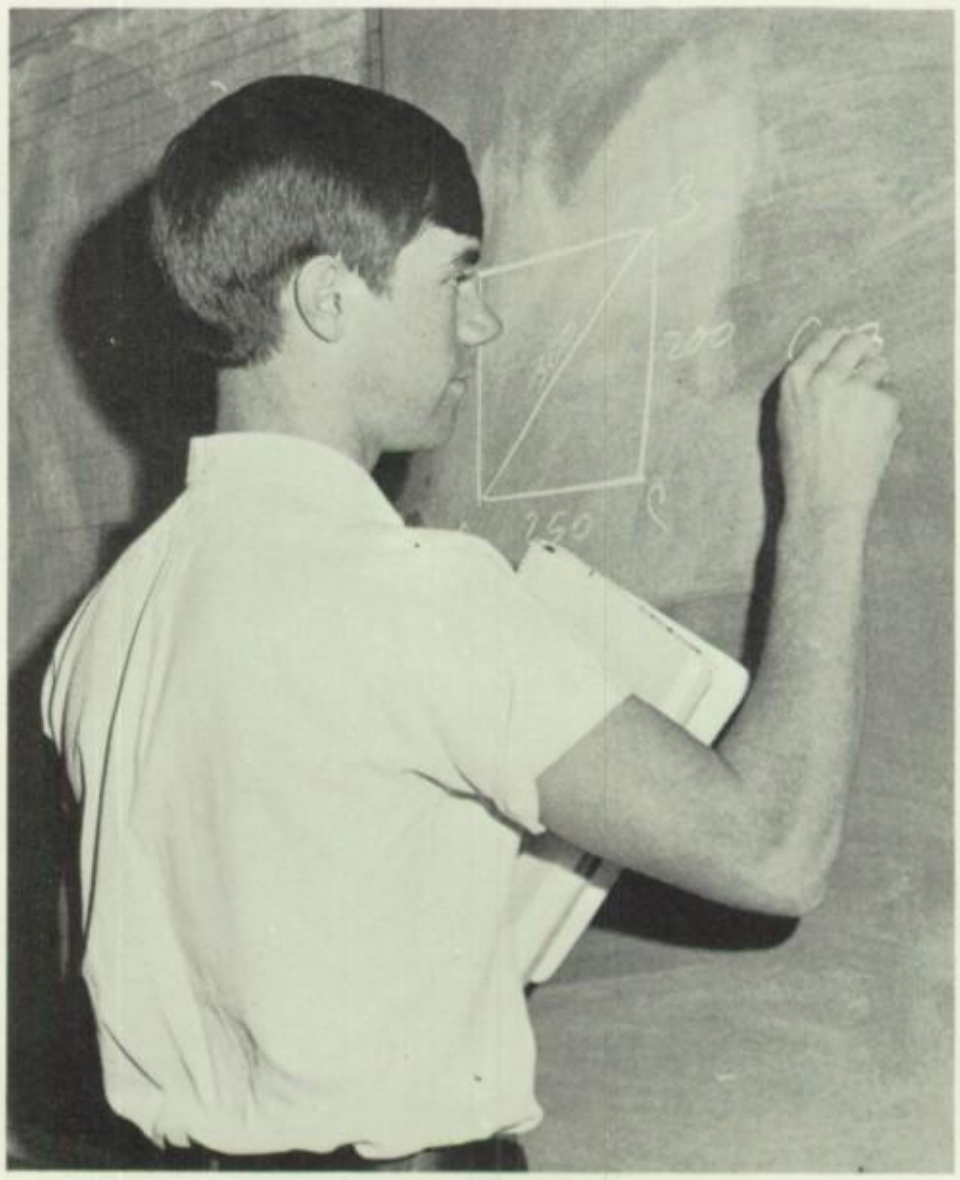
The Spanish classes are studying a new textbook, "Learning Spanish the Modern Way." The first year is quite different in that there is not so much memory work and more grammar is learned and more writing done. The second year class found it necessary to go through the first year book in six weeks before starting the second year.

Spanish objects intrigue Robert Lundy and Loretta Beasley.

A World of Logic Is Discovered Through Math

Neil Yake and Joyce Roudebush work to solve Algebra problem.

Participants in a mathematics program benefit in at least two ways. They acquire useful knowledge and mental discipline. The ability to reason correctly and think rationally determine how successfully they manage their lives. Mathematics study can cultivate this ability—a sufficient reason in itself, for taking math.

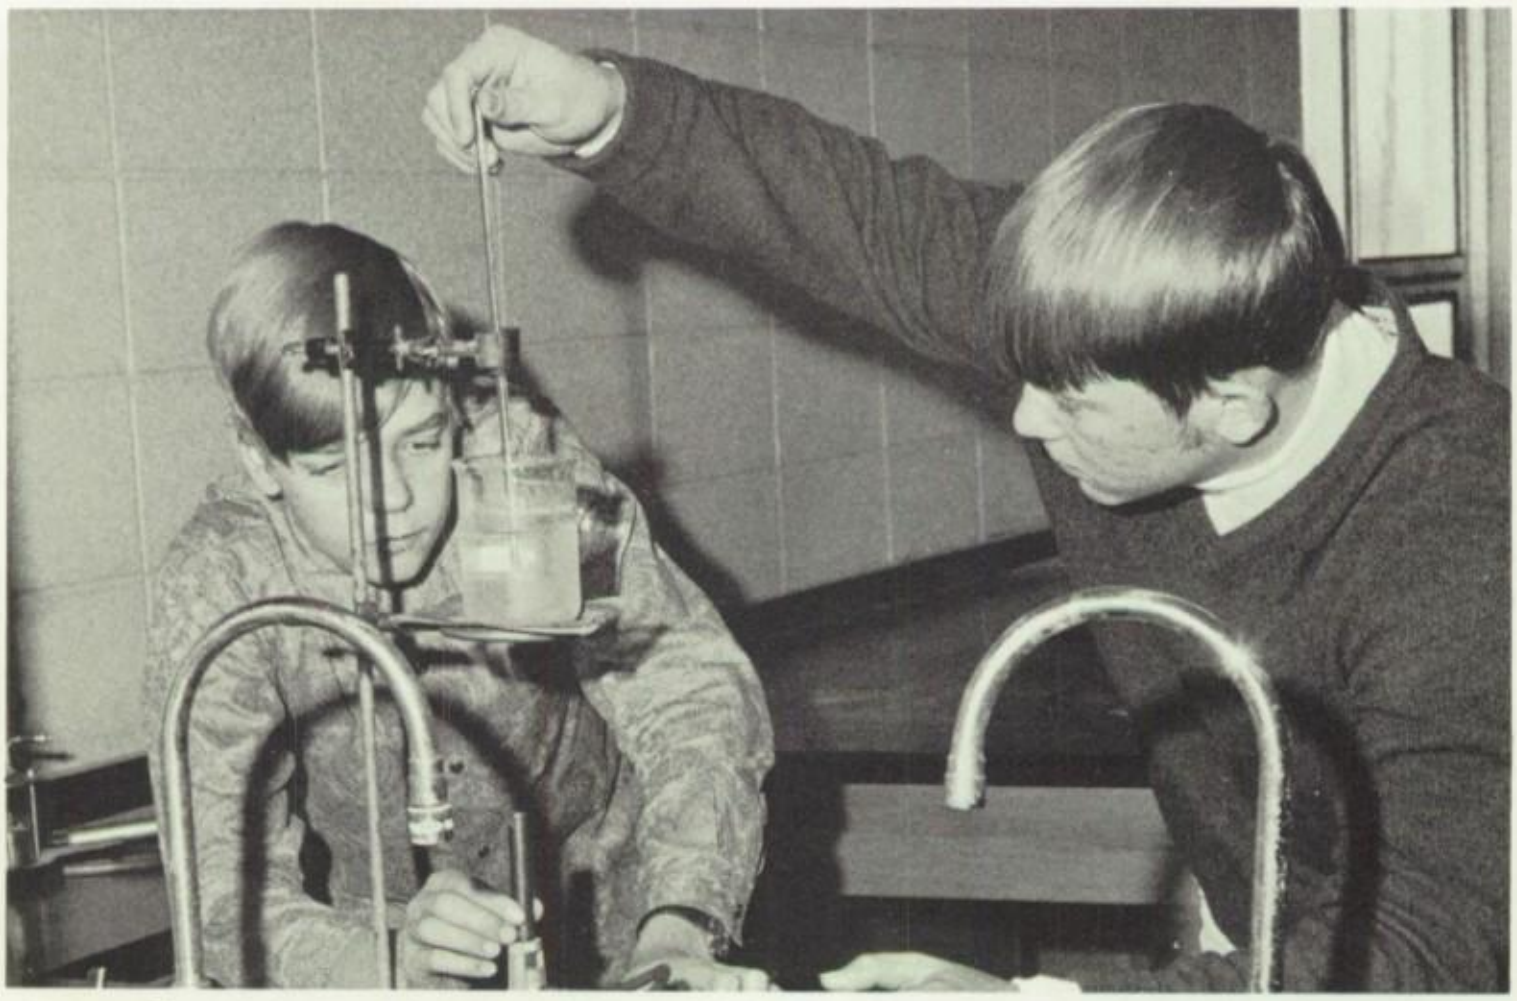


Physics prove challenging to Dured Townsend.

and Science . . .

The study of the sciences has been aided by space flights, medical research, and additional aides in the Science department. Students have learned and explored subjects such as minerals, astronomy, chemistry, and meteorology. Experiments helped students to develop a true appreciation of the nature of science.

Linda Weddle points to favorite butterfly.



Chemistry experiments performed by Danny Knowles and Jim Spainhower.

Todays Youth Learn Hand Skills in Shop and

In vocational Agriculture students learn principles and skills that will serve as a solid foundation for any agricultural occupation they choose as their life's work. Class room discussion, agriculture shop exercises, and field trip experience are the three main tools available to the Vo. Ag. students.

Adult and young farm classes are also a part of the program. They meet at night during the year to study current problems and new developments in agriculture.

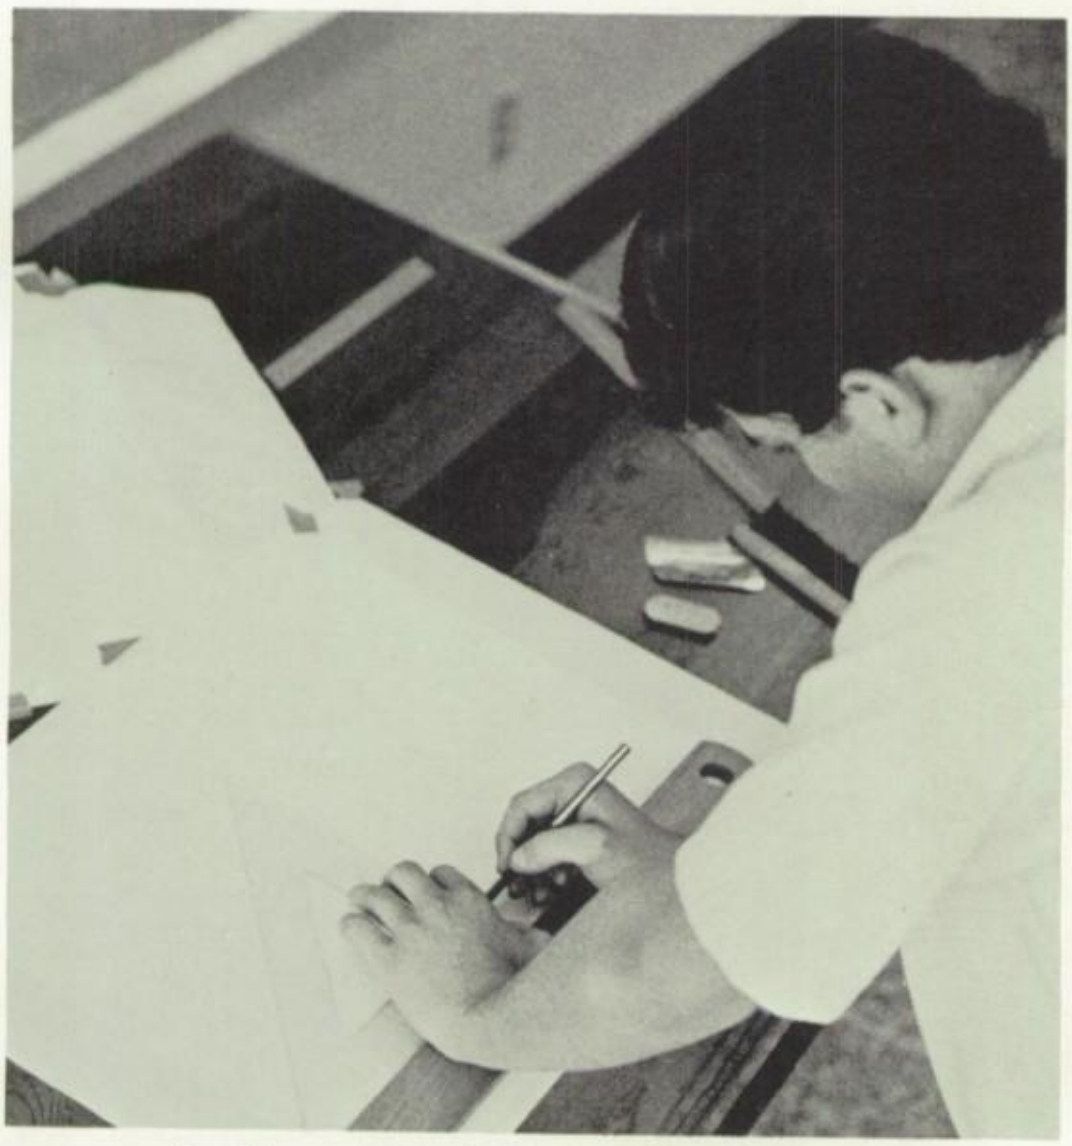
Perfection, unity, and quality are achieved by Steve Miller.



Drafting poses a challenge to Jerry Edelman.

The department of Industrial Arts offer students courses in General Shop, Woodworking, Mechanical Drawing, Engineering, and Drafting.

Students in woodworking develop hand and machine skills in the construction of furniture.

Drafting courses incorporate the fundamentals of drawing and the technical aspects.

Business Students Prepare for Careers . . .

David Owens lends Monica Agan a helping hand cleaning typewriters.

Steve Longest aids Jackie Spainhower in a Bookkeeping problem.

The number and kinds of business activities in which people engage have increased enormously during the last half century. This means that every citizen must learn more about business in order to be an effective participant in this society.

Thus, the purpose of business education is to teach the skills that will enable a young person to earn a living, but also to contribute to his overall knowledge and well-being for the rest of his life.

Girls Learn to Manage Efficient Homes . . .

Senior Home Ec. girls study new room furniture during class.

Education for homemaking in the school of today must be comprehensive in scope in order to keep pace with the changing aspects of home and family living, as well as to place continued emphasis on the enduring values which must not be forgotten.

Debra Brookshire shows Karen Zimmerly how to thread a machine.

Abilities and Self Expression . . .

Artistic bent students studied the first semester on the elements of art and principles of design.

The holiday spirit caught up with the class as its members designed and printed their own Christmas Cards. The making of huge papier mâché ornaments was another project.

Later in the school year techniques of art, such as sandcasting, oil painting, and clay sculpture were also practiced.

Art major, Hazel Dishman, captures the beauty of fall foliage.

An engraved effect is achieved by Dennis Bough and Mary Guthrie with scissors, crayons, and paper.

Our school orchestra has been studying and enjoying many classical works of Beethoven, Bach, Handel, and Mozart. Each year we add more classical music to our music library and repertoire. Fundamental styles of composers, techniques, dynamics, and form are learned during this concentrated practice.

The orchestra students attended their thirteenth District String, Vocal, and Piano contest at De Pauw University. All entries received first division ratings.

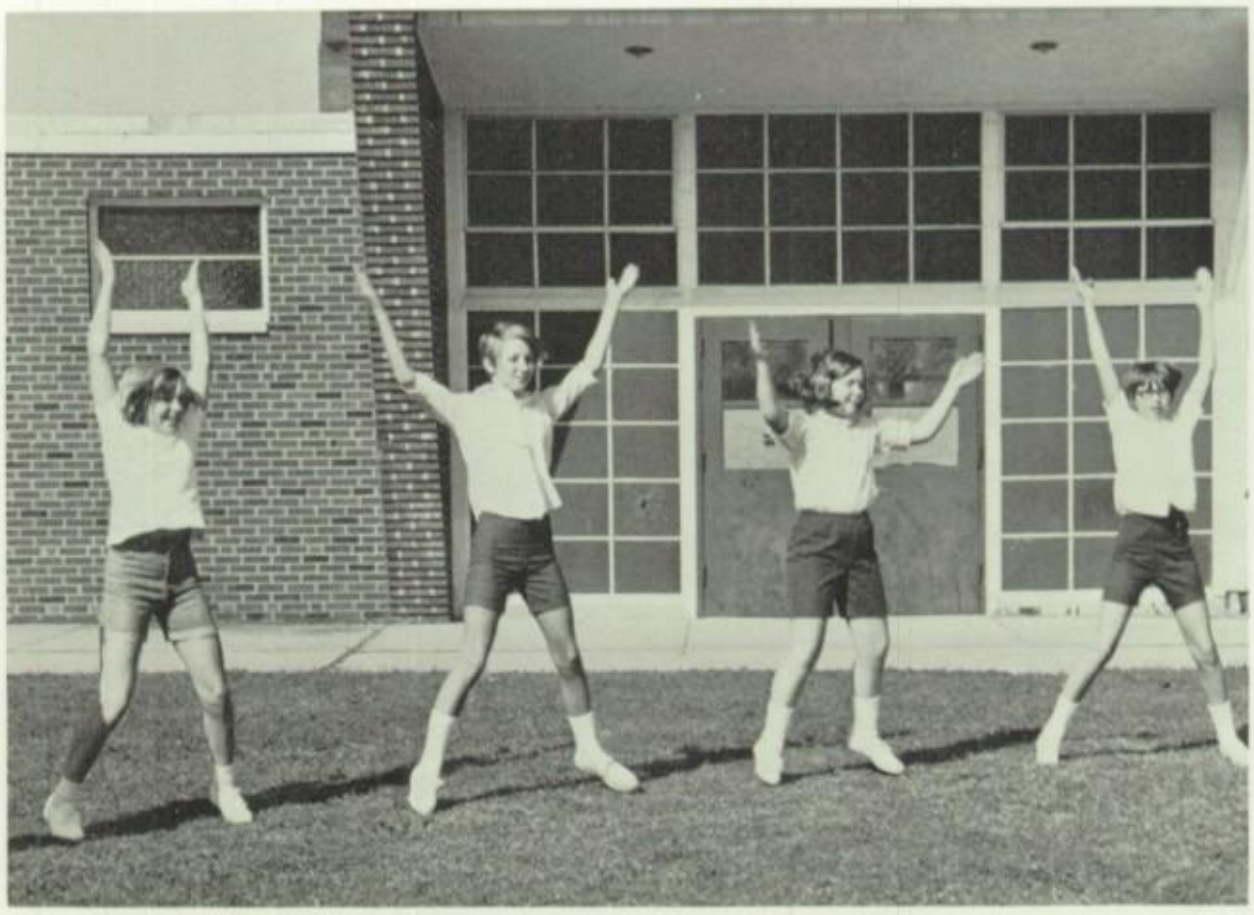
Youth Participate in President's Physical

Physical education activities included softball, volleyball, deck tennis, basketball, modern dance, exercise, badminton, dodge ball, archery. Students also participated in the President's Physical Fitness Program.

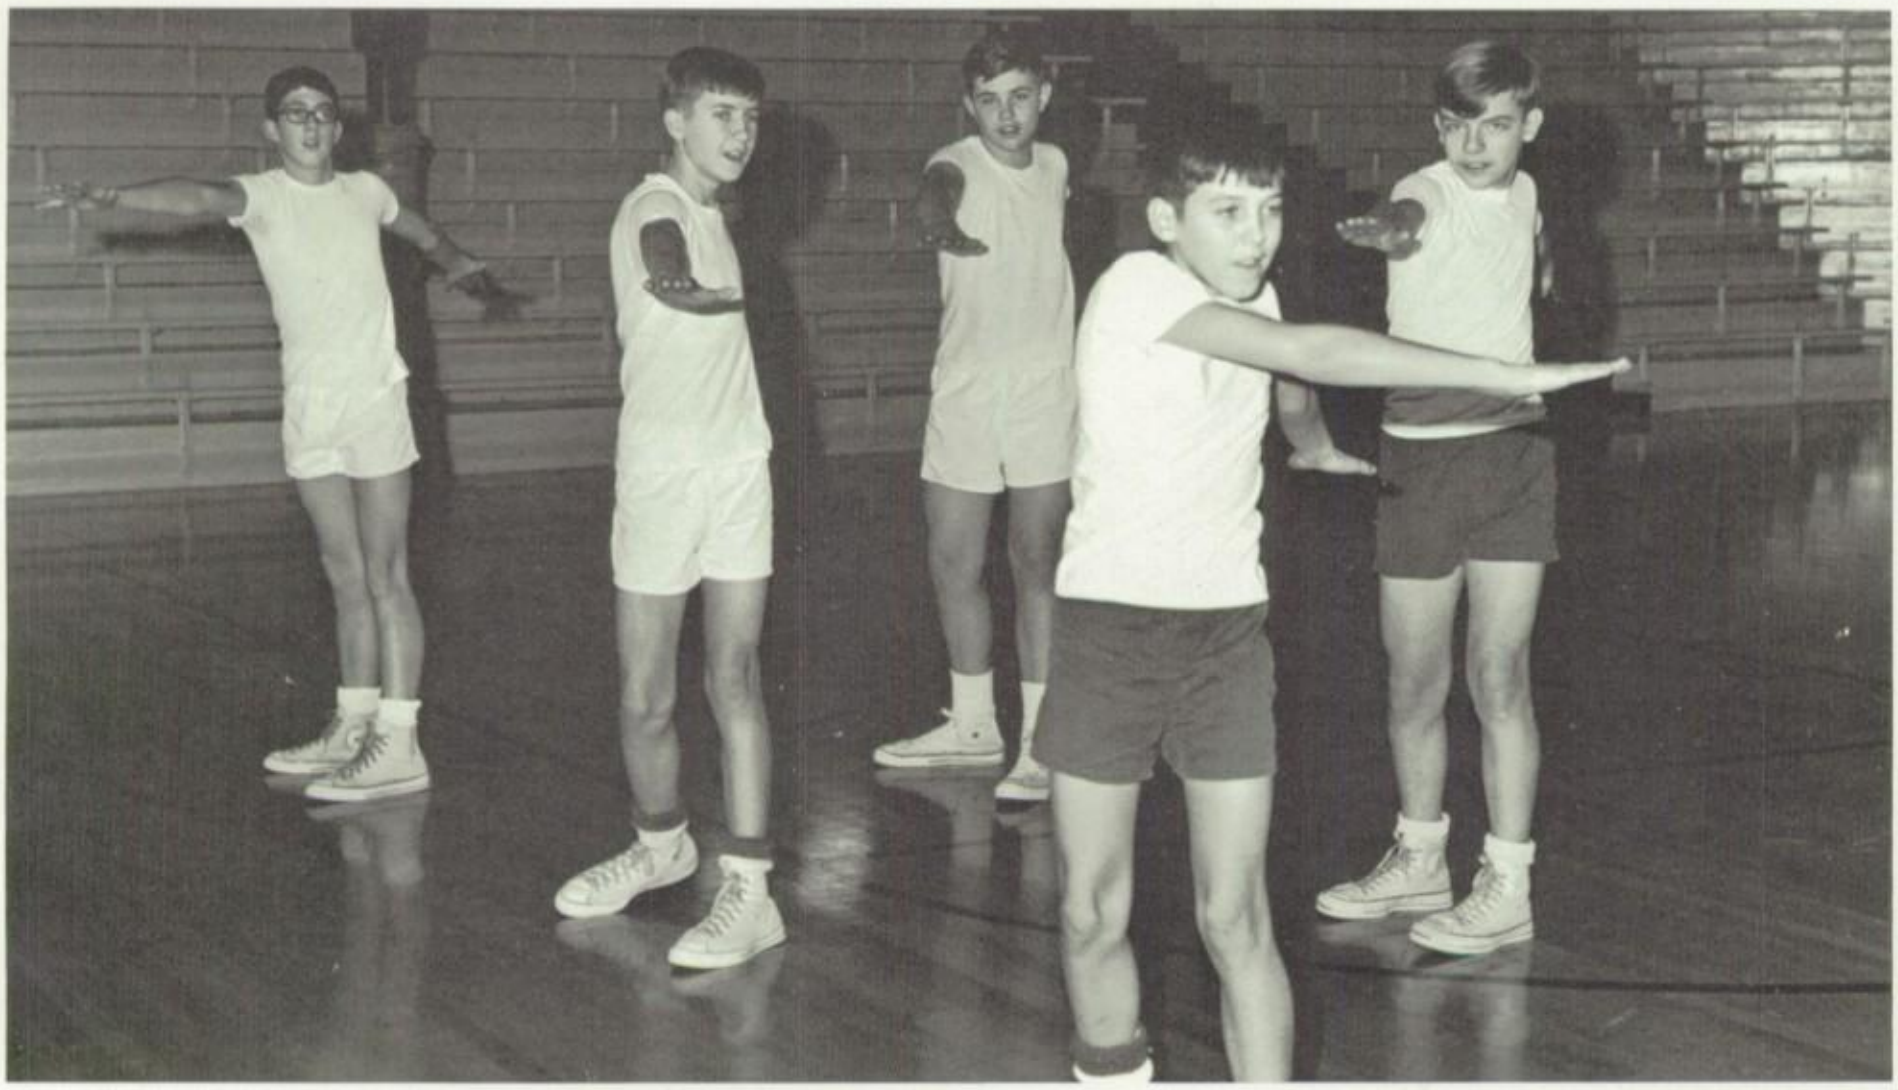


Jumping jacks keep the girls in condition.

Speed ball, a source of pleasure.

Softball is fun on a balmy day.

Fitness Program . . .



Being physically fit, and mentally aware is a must today.

Doug Hawkins rises to the occasion.

Boys Physical Education classes were actively participating in outdoor and indoor sports. Acquiring a spirit of competitiveness and practicing good sportsmanship were also important qualities learned in class.

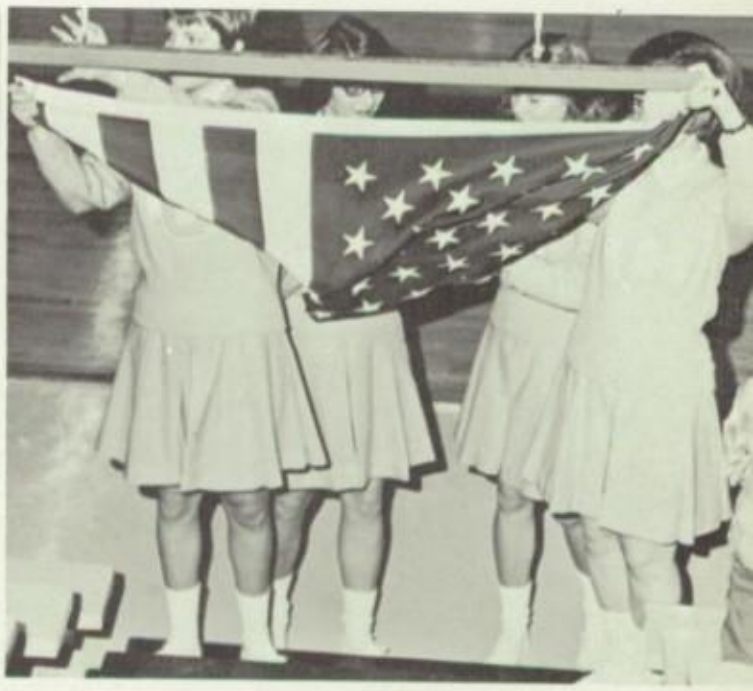
Sports



As American as hot dogs, so is the roar of the crowd and a heated contest between two local rivalries. Just as the 1968 Olympics demonstrated a competitive spirit and a will to win, our high school sports program must be based on these same principles. The Olympic flame must burn again. So must the spirit to win ignite each day of our lives.

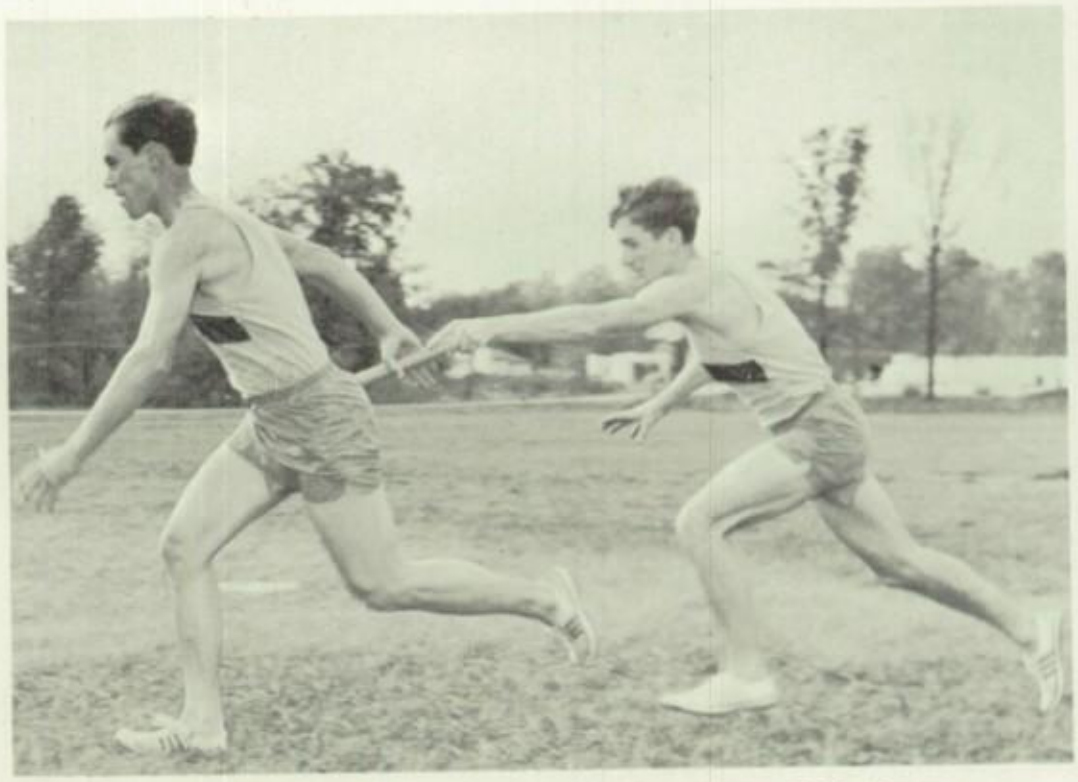
The main purpose of the Jr. Hi. basketball program is to develop players for the varsity.

JUNIOR HIGH CHEERLEADERS: C. Rollins, J. Lambert, M. Bingham.

EIGHTH GRADE—(First Row) T. Reed, T. Egnew, R. Morris, K. Hines, W. Hamilton. (Second Row) Coach Spencer, G. Porter, D. Himebrook, L. Sparks, D. Boyanowski, Manager.

Track Team "Runs" Another Season . . .

High hurdles challenge Greg Davis.



Dured Townsend and Kevin Keller pass off the baton.

Returning lettermen in track this year were hard-pressed to make significant showings in the county track record book. Davis however, placed fourth in the Sectional High Jump.

Anticipated improvements in our field and track equipment should promote added interest in track.

TRACK—(First Row) J. Brown, D. Hawkins, K. Keller, R. Lundy, N. Yake, G. Pennington, R. Coker. (Second Row) K. Jones, S. Roberts, C. Huffine, G. Davis, R. Graves, D. Townsend, R. Inman.

Two-Milers Look to Promising Future . . .

CROSS COUNTRY—(First Row) G. Pennington, J. Brown, K. Keller, N. Yake, R. Lundy. (Second Row) D. Townsend, D. Hawkins, R. Inman, G. Davis, C. Huffine, S. Roberts.

Sterling performances by senior, Dured Townsend and junior, Kevin Keller kept our team in contention in seasonal contests. Largely through their efforts we placed sixth in the County Cross Country Meet at Linton.

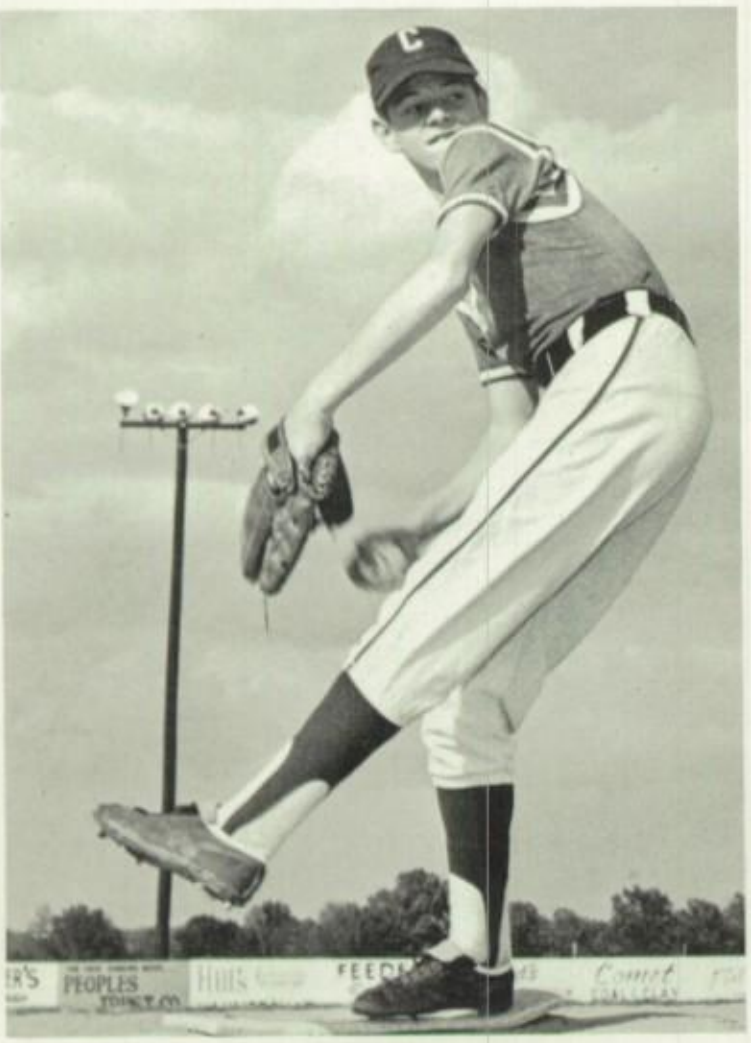
Hopefully, the television coverages of the Summer Olympics in Mexico will encourage boys in Central to enter and participate in this sport in our school.

Lakers and Tigers pace themselves for the last lap.

Central Sluggers Surprise Many Opponents

HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL—(First Row) S. Roberts, J. Brown, D. Owens, J. Burgess. (Second Row) D. Hawkins, R. Inman, G. Davis, K. Jones, R. Coker.

Wound-up for the pitch James Brown chalks up another victory.



Reaching out for the catch - Steve Roberts.

During Favorable Year . . .

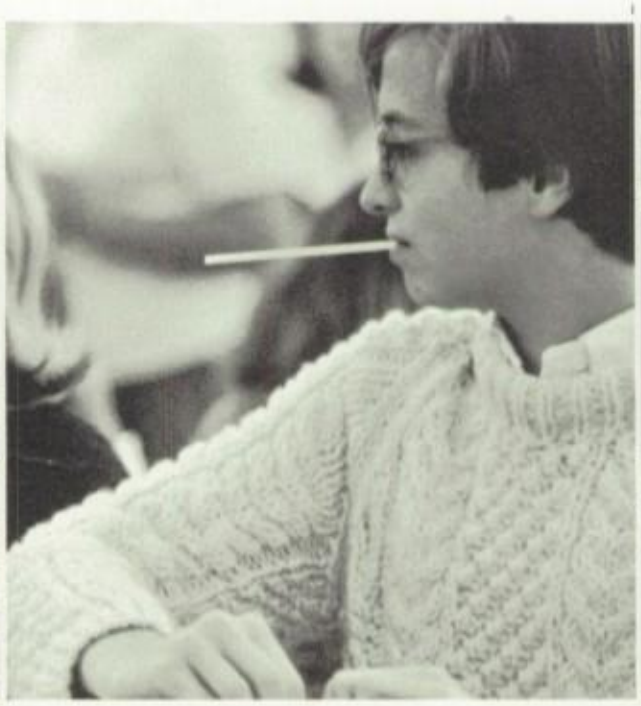
County All-Star Players Kenneth Hines and Loren Sparks.

David Owens attempts slide-in.

After a slow start, the Babe Ruth team came on strong during the last half of the season with a record of five wins, two losses.

BABE RUTH—(First Row) R. Inman, D. Himebrook, K. Hines, L. Sparks, J. Hamlin. (Second Row) J. Burgess, K. Jones, D. Hawkins, S. Roberts, J. Brown, D. Owens.

Album



As seen through the eyes of youth, America is a pinwheel of sadness to happiness, poverty to riches, and obscurity to fame. We are players on the stage of life, trying to make the most of our one chance before the final curtain falls, for there are no encores.

The Journalism Class acknowledges, with grateful thanks, the support of its advertisers.

It should be noted here that many advertisers subscribed for an ad in this book and indicated they would be happy to be listed as a business patron rather than requesting a specified space in the advertising section. We appreciate this, too.
